

Shared Living

Shared Living matches an adult with a disability to a home provider who welcomes them as an equal, contributing member of the household. In addition to providing support with the logistics of life, the home provider also finds fun ways to help the individual expand their community network. The matching process is individualized to incorporate everyone's needs and preferences.

Advantages of Shared Living:

- Highly individualized community based services and integration
- Powerful role models within a home environment
- Enhanced individual skills and social development
- Continuity of care through one consistent and qualified person who understands the individual as a whole, including likes/dislikes, medical issues or concerns, personality and any other life challenges

Agency support provided by Triangle:

- Case management and comprehensive assistance (including 24/7 emergency number)
- Training, oversight, and quality assurance
- Generous stipend based on level of need given to the home provider (tax exempt)
- Opportunities for respite
- Matches made available for individuals of all abilities with caregivers who share common interests and lifestyles

Individuals and their families have several excellent options for residential support. Shared Living stands out as an opportunity to build meaningful relationships that are enriching for both the individual and the home provider.
